Issue

The issue presented for review by the Appeals Unit of NY State of Health is:

> Did NY State of Health (NYSOH) properly determine that you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to purchase a qualified health plan at full cost, effective July 1, 2017?

Procedural History

On May 26, 2017, you updated your application for financial assistance. That day, a preliminary eligibility determination was prepared stating that you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to purchase a qualified health plan at full cost, effective July 1, 2017.

Also on May 26, 2017, you spoke to NYSOH's Account Review Unit and appealed your household's eligibility determination, insofar as your household was not eligible to receive advance payments of the premium tax credit.

On May 27, 2017, NYSOH issued a notice of eligibility determination, based on the May 26, 2017 application, stating that you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to purchase a qualified health plan at full cost, effective July 1, 2017. That notice also stated that your household was not eligible for financial assistance because your household income was over the allowable income limits.

On June 6, 2017, NYSOH issued an eligibility determination notice stating that you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to receive advance payments of the premium tax credit with cost-sharing reductions for a limited time, effective May 1, 2017, because your household had been granted aid to continue until a decision is made on your appeal.

Also on June 6, 2017, NYSOH issued an enrollment confirmation notice, stating that you, your spouse, and your two children were enrolled in a qualified health plan with an advance payment of the tax credit of $1,026.00 applied to your monthly premium starting on May 1, 2017.

On September 6, 2017, you had a telephone hearing with a Hearing Officer from NYSOH's Appeals Unit. The record was developed during the hearing and held open up to September 27, 2017, to allow you to submit supporting documents.

As of September 18, 2017, you uploaded documentation and it was entered into the record as Appellant's "Exhibit #1." The record remained open to September 27, 2017, and was closed that day.

Findings of Fact

A review of the record supports the following findings of fact:

1) You testified that you expect to file your 2017 taxes with a tax filing status of married filing jointly. You will claim two dependents on that tax return.

2) You are seeking financial assistance for insurance for you, your spouse, and your two children.

3) The application that was submitted online on May 26, 2017 listed annual household income of $105,234.01, consisting of $49,000.00 you earn from your employment, and $56,234.01 your spouse earns from her employment. You testified that this amount was incorrect.

4) You testified that you expect your annual income to be $39,000.00, and you expect your wife to earn $53,000.00.

5) You submitted one paycheck for your spouse, dated September 8, 2017, which states that her gross salaried earnings were $2,038.46.

6) You submitted page one of your 2016 1040 form, which shows that your adjusted gross income for 2016 was $66,018.00, consisting of $29,276.00 in wages, -$3,000 in capital losses, $619.00 in pensions and annuities, and $39,123.00 in rental real estate, royalties, partnerships, S corporations, trusts, etc. You did not take any deductions.

7) Your application states that you will not be taking any deductions on your 2017 tax return.

8) Your application states that you live in [redacted].

Conflicting evidence, if any, was considered and found to be less credible than the evidence noted above.

Applicable Law and Regulations

Advance Payments of Premium Tax Credit

Advance payments of the premium tax credit (APTC) are generally available to a person who is eligible to enroll in a qualified health plan (QHP) and (1) expects to have a household income between 138% and 400% of the applicable federal poverty level (FPL), (2) expects to file a tax return and claim a personal exemption deduction for a person who meets the eligibility requirements to enroll in a QHP, and (3) is not otherwise eligible for minimum essential coverage except through the individual market (see 45 CFR § 155.305(f), 42 CFR § 435.119(b), 42 CFR § 435.911(b)(1), 42 CFR § 435.603(d)(4)).

The maximum amount of APTC that can be authorized equals:

1) the cost of the health insurance premium for the taxpayer's coverage family in the second lowest cost silver plan offered through NY State of Health in the county where the taxpayer resides

minus

2) the taxpayer's expected contribution amount

(see 26 USC § 36B, 26 CFR § 1.36B-3).

The taxpayer's expected contribution amount is the amount that the taxpayer is expected to spend on health insurance premiums. The expected contribution for 2017 is set by federal law at 2.04% to 9.69% of household income (26 USC § 36B(b)(3)(A), 26 CFR § 1.36B-3T(g)(1), IRS Rev. Proc.2016-24).

In an analysis of APTC eligibility, the determination is based on the FPL for the first day of the open enrollment period of the benefit year for which coverage is requested (45 CFR §§ 155.300(a), 155.305(f)(1)(i)). On the date of your application, that was the 2016 FPL, which is $24,300.00 for a four-person household (81 Fed. Reg. 4036.).

For annual household income in the range of at least 200% but less than 400% of the 2016 FPL, the expected contribution is between 6.43% and 9.69% of the household income (26 CFR § 1.36B-3T(g)(1), 45 CFR § 155.300(a), IRS Rev. Proc. 2016-24).

People who use the APTC to help pay health insurance premiums must file a federal tax return and reconcile their expected income (stated on NYSOH application) with their actual income (stated on their federal income tax return). Those who take less tax credit in advance than they claim on the tax return may get the rest of it as an income tax refund or have their tax bill reduced. Those who take more tax credit in advance than they can claim on their tax return will owe the difference as additional income taxes (26 CFR § 1.36B-4).

Modified Adjusted Gross Income

NYSOH bases its eligibility determinations on modified adjusted gross income as defined in the federal tax code (45 CFR § 155.300(a)). The term "modified adjusted gross income" means adjusted gross income increased by (1) any income that was excluded under 26 USC § 911 for United States citizens or residents living abroad, (2) tax-exempt interest received or accrued, and (3) Social Security benefits that were excluded from gross income under 26 USC § 86 (see 26 USC § 36B(d)(2)(B), 26 CFR § 1.36B-1(e)(2)).

"Adjusted gross income" means, in the case of an individual taxpayer, gross federal taxable income minus certain specific deductions, such as expenses reimbursed by an employer, losses from sale or exchange of property, losses from premature withdrawal of finds from time savings accounts, deductions attributable to royalties, and certain retirement savings (26 USC § 62(a)). Living expenses, such as rent and utilities are not an allowable deduction in computing adjusted gross income.

Legal Analysis

The issue is whether NYSOH properly determined that you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to purchase a qualified health plan at full cost, effective July 1, 2017.

The application that was submitted on May 26, 2017 listed an annual household income of $105,234.01 and the eligibility determination relied upon that information. You testified that this was incorrect, and that your household's income would be less. You submitted one of your spouse's paystubs, and page one of your 2016 1040 to support your testimony. This documentation is insufficient to recalculate your household's earnings, in that you did not submit the second page of your 2016 1040. Therefore, NYSOH properly determined your eligibility with an annual expected household income of $105,234.01.

You, your spouse, and your two children are in a four-person household. You expect to file your 2017 income taxes as married filing jointly and will claim two dependents on that tax return. Your household resides in [redacted].

Advanced payments of the premium tax credit are generally available to a person who is eligible to enroll in a qualified health plan and (1) expects to have a household income between 138% and 400% of the applicable FPL, (2) expects to file a tax return and claim a personal exemption deduction for a person who meets the eligibility requirements to enroll in a QHP, and (3) is not otherwise eligible for minimum essential coverage except through the individual market.

In an analysis of APTC eligibility, the determination is based on the FPL for the first day of the open enrollment period of the benefit year for which coverage is requested. On the date of your application, that was the 2016 FPL, which is $24,300.00 for a four-person household. The income amount included in your May 26, 2017 application, $105,234.01, is 433.06% of the 2016 FPL for a four-person household. As APTC is only available to individuals who expect to have a household income less than 400% of the FPL, your household was not eligible to receive APTC to help pay for the cost of health coverage.

Since the May 27, 2017 eligibility determination properly stated that, based on the information you provided, you, your spouse, and your two children were eligible to purchase a qualified health plan at full cost, it is correct and is AFFIRMED.

If the information in your application is incorrect, please update your account accordingly.
