Issue

The issue presented for review by the Appeals Unit of NY State of Health is:

Did NY State of Health (NYSOH) properly determine you were not eligible for retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017?

Procedural History

On November 24, 2017, you submitted an application for financial assistance with health insurance, and requested help paying for medical bills in the month of September 2017.

On November 25, 2017, NYSOH issued a notice of eligibility determination stating you were eligible for Medicaid, effective November 1, 2017.

Also on November 25, 2017, NYSOH issued a notice stating you were not eligible for retroactive Medicaid assistance for the month of September 2017, because the monthly household income you provided of $1,700.00 was over the allowable monthly income limit of $1,387.00.

On December 14, 2017, you spoke to NYSOH's Account Review Unit and appealed insofar you were not eligible for retroactive Medicaid assistance for the month of September 2017.

On February 16, 2018, you had a telephone hearing with a Hearing Officer from NYSOH's Appeals Unit. The record was developed during the hearing and held open to March 2, 2018 to allow you to submit supporting documentation. As of March 2, 2018, no documentation was received by the Appeals Unit and none was viewable in your NYSOH account. The record closed that day and this decision is based on the record as developed during the hearing.

Findings of Fact

A review of the record supports the following findings of fact:

- 1) You testified you are seeking retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017, because you have outstanding medical bills from that time.
- 2) You submitted an application on November 24, 2017 listing a negative annual expected income for 2017. That application indicated that the only income you would receive in 2017 was $6,500.00 from your employment with the [REDACTED] between September 15, 2017 and November 12, 2017. The application also indicated that you would take $7,200.00 in annual deductions on your 2017 tax return including $500.00 per month in tuition and fees and $100.00 per month in student loan interest.
- 3) You testified the income information in your application was not accurate.
- 4) That application requested retroactive coverage for the month for September 2017 and listed your monthly income for that month as $1,700.00.
- 5) NYSOH denied your request for retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017 on the grounds that the monthly income listed in your application was over the allowable limit to qualify for Medicaid in that month.
- 6) You testified that you worked as a [REDACTED] until mid-August 2017 when you lost your job and that you began working at another [REDACTED] in mid-September 2017.
- 7) You testified that you earned approximately $40,491.00 in 2017.
- 8) You testified that you submitted paystubs to correct the inaccuracies in your application.
- 9) Your account confirms that on November 24, 2017, NYSOH received four weekly paystubs for check dates between October 27, 2017 and November 17, 2017. The October 27, 2017 paystub showed gross weekly earnings in the amount of $1,005.91 with year to date income of $4,430.21.

- 10) You testified, and your application indicates, you will file your 2017 tax return with a tax filing status of single and you will claim no dependents.
- 11) You testified that you do not know what your income was for the month of September 2017.
- 12) You testified that you received your last paycheck from your prior job in the first week of September 2017 and you did not know when you received your first check for your current job.
- 13) You were directed to submit a copy of all paystubs for paychecks received in the month of September 2017. As of the date of this decisions no documentation has been received.

Conflicting evidence, if any, was considered and found to be less credible than the evidence noted above.

Applicable Law and Regulations

Medicaid for Adults between the Ages of 19 and 65

Medicaid can be provided through NYSOH to adults who: (1) are age 19 or older and under age 65, (2) are not pregnant, (3) are not entitled to or enrolled for Medicare benefits under part A or B of title XVIII of the Act, (4) are not otherwise eligible for and enrolled for mandatory coverage under a State's Medicaid State plan in accordance with subpart B of this part, and (5) have a household modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) that is at or below 138% of the FPL for the applicable family size (42 CFR § 435.119(b), 42 CFR § 435.911(b)(1), 42 CFR § 435.603(d)(4)), NY Social Services Law § 366(1)(b)).

In an analysis of Medicaid eligibility, the determination is based on the FPL “for the applicable budget period used to determine an individual's eligibility” (42 CFR § 435.4). On the date of your application, that was the 2017 FPL, which is $12,060.00 for a one-person household (82 Federal Register 8831).

Retroactive Medicaid

The Department of Health must make Medicaid coverage start retroactively for up to three months prior to the month of an initial application if the individual received medical services that would have been covered under Medicaid and the individual would have been eligible for Medicaid at the time he received the services if he had applied (42 USCA § 1396A(34); 42 CFR § 435.915(a)). The Department of Health may make eligibility effective for fee-for-service Medicaid on the first day of the month if an individual was eligible any time during that month (42 CFR § 435.915(b)).

Legal Analysis

The issue under review is whether NYSOH properly determined you were not eligible for retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017.

You are in a one-person household, because you file your taxes with a tax filing status of single and claim no dependents.

You submitted an application for financial assistance on November 24, 2017 and requested help paying for medical bills for the month of September 2017.

When an individual files an initial application for Medicaid, his or her eligibility for retroactive Medicaid assistance depends on the date of application. To this end, it does not matter whether that initial application resulted in Medicaid going forward. Instead, an individual, who has filed an initial application for Medicaid through NYSOH, has the right to be evaluated for Medicaid for the three months before the month of his or her application.

Medicaid coverage can be made effective retroactively for up to three months prior to an individual's initial application if the individual received medical services that would have been covered under Medicaid and if they would have been eligible for Medicaid in those three months had they applied.

You testified that you are seeking retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017. Eligibility would be based on current monthly household income and family size.

To be eligible for Medicaid in September 2017, you would have needed to meet the non-financial criteria and have an income no greater than 138% of the FPL, which is $1,387.00 per month. There is no indication in the record that you would have been ineligible for Medicaid based on any non-financial criteria during September 2017.

Your application listed your monthly income for the month of September 2017 as $1,700.00 and the subject determination relied upon that information. However, you testified that you do not know how much income you received in the month of September 2017. You testified that you received your last paycheck from your prior job in the first week of September 2017 and you did not know when you received your first check for your current job.

Although you had previously submitted paystubs from your current job, the first paystub submitted was for a check date of October 27, 2017 listing gross weekly earnings of $1,005.91 and year to date income of $4,430.21. Given the inconsistency between your testimony and the information in your application, as well as the lack of evidence of your income for the relevant time-period, you were directed to submit proof of all income received in the month of September 2017. However, no such documentation was submitted.

Since there is no reliable evidence in the record of your income for the month of September 2017, the Appeals Unit is without sufficient evidence to review your eligibility for retroactive Medicaid coverage for that month. As such, there is no factual basis upon which the Appeals Unit can overturn NYSOH's November 25, 2017 eligibility determination notice, stating you were not eligible for retroactive Medicaid coverage for the month of September 2017. Accordingly, that determination is AFFIRMED.
