Decision

Decision Date: April 03, 2018

NY State of Health Account ID: [REDACTED]
Appeal Identification Number: AP000000027920

Issue

The issue presented for review by the Appeals Unit of NY State of Health is:

Did NY State of Health (NYSOH) properly determine that your child was not eligible for Medicaid for November 1, 2017 through November 30, 2017?

Procedural History

On January 26, 2018, you submitted an application for financial assistance with health insurance and indicated that you were seeking help paying for your child's medical bills for November 2017 and December 2017.

On January 27, 2018, NYSOH issued a notice of eligibility determination stating that your child was eligible for Medicaid. This eligibility was effective as of January 1, 2018.

Also on January 27, 2018, NYSOH issued an eligibility determination notice stating that your child was not eligible for Medicaid for November 1, 2017 through November 30, 2017 because the monthly household income of $5,050.14 is over the allowable monthly income limit of $3,795.00.

On January 29, 2018, you spoke to NYSOH's Account Review Unit and appealed the January 27, 2018 eligibility determination notices insofar as your child was denied retroactive Medicaid for the month of November 2017 and found eligible for Medicaid rather than Child Health Plus.

If you need this information in a language other than English or you need assistance reading this notice, we can help you. Call 1-855-355-5777 (TTY - English: 1-800-662-1220) (TTY - Spanish: 1-877-662-4886).

On February 10, 2018, NYSOH issued an eligibility determination notice stating that your child was eligible for Medicaid for December 1, 2017 through December 31, 2017 because the monthly household income of $3,329.55 is at or below the allowable monthly income limit of $3,795.00.

On March 21, 2018, you had a telephone hearing with a Hearing Officer from NYSOH's Appeals Unit. During the hearing, you clarified that you were only seeking a redetermination of your child's eligibility for Medicaid for the month of November 2017 through this appeal. You were no longer pursuing the appeal for Medicaid eligibility for the month of December 2017 or your child's eligibility for Child Health Plus. The record was developed during the hearing and closed that day.

Findings of Fact

A review of the record supports the following findings of fact:

- 1) You testified that you are only seeking a redetermination of eligibility for your child's Medicaid for November 1, 2017 to November 30, 2017.
- 2) Your account reflects that your child was found eligible for Medicaid for the month of December 2017.
- 3) Your application states that you expect to file your 2017 federal income tax return as married filing jointly and will claim one dependent; however, you testified that you were considering filing your return separately and your spouse will claim your child.
- 4) You testified that you, your spouse, and your child live together in your household.
- 5) Your application states that your child was born on [REDACTED].
- 6) You submitted an application for financial assistance on January 26, 2018.
- 7) Your application submitted on January 26, 2018, states that for the month of November 2017 your total household income was $5,050.14. You testified that amount was incorrect.
- 8) You testified that you are paid on a per diem basis at $21.33 per hour.

- 9) You confirmed that the income documentation described below represents your total household income for the month of November 2017:
 - a. You uploaded a paystub dated November 9, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $1,706.55 and a paystub dated November 22, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $692.22.
 - b. You also uploaded income documentation for your spouse which included a paystub dated November 16, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $736.40, a paystub dated November 30, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $322.14, and an unemployment benefit statement showing that he received $344.00 on November 19, 2017.
- 10) Your application states that you do not plan on taking any deductions on your tax return.

Conflicting evidence, if any, was considered and found to be less credible than the evidence noted above.

Applicable Law and Regulations

Medicaid for Children

A child who is under one year of age is eligible for Medicaid if he or she meets the non-financial criteria and has a household modified adjusted gross income that falls at or below 223% of the federal poverty level (FPL) for the applicable family size (42 CFR § 435.118(c); New York State Department of Social Services Administrative Directive 13 OHIP/ADM-03).

In the case of an individual who expects to file a tax return and does not expect to be claimed by another taxpayer, the household consists of the taxpayer and all persons whom such individual expects to claim as a tax dependent (42 CFR § 435.603(f)(1)).

In the case where a child is claimed by one parent as a dependent and who is living with both parents who are not filing a joint tax return (42 CFR § 435.603(f)(2)(ii)), the child's family includes the following persons, if living with the child: (1) the child's parents, (2) the child's spouse, (3) the child's children and siblings under the age of 19, or 21 if a full-time student (42 CFR § 435.603(f)(3)).

In an analysis of Medicaid eligibility, the determination is based on the FPL "for the applicable budget period used to determine an individual's eligibility" (42 CFR § 435.4). On the date of your application that was the 2017 FPL, which is $20,420.00 for a three-person household (82 Fed. Reg. 8831).

Retroactive Medicaid

The Department of Health must make Medicaid coverage start retroactively for up to three months prior to the month of an initial application if the individual received medical services that would have been covered under Medicaid and the individual would have been eligible for Medicaid at the time he received the services if he had applied (42 USCA § 1396A(34); 42 CFR § 435.915(a)). The Department of Health may make eligibility effective for fee-for-service Medicaid on the first day of the month if an individual was eligible any time during that month (42 CFR § 435.915(b)).

Legal Analysis

The issue under review is whether NYSOH properly determined that your child was not eligible for Medicaid for November 1, 2017 through November 30, 2017.

You testified that you, your spouse, and your child live together in your household. Accordingly, for purposes of this analysis, your child is a member of a three-person household. This is the case regardless of whether you file your taxes as married filing jointly or if you file your taxes separately and your spouse claims your child as a dependent.

You submitted an application for financial assistance on January 26, 2018 and requested help in paying for your child's medical bills for November 2017 and December 2017.

When an individual files an initial application for Medicaid, his or her eligibility for retroactive Medicaid depends on the date of application. To this end, it does not matter whether or not that initial application resulted in Medicaid going forward. Instead, an individual, who has filed an initial application for Medicaid through NYSOH, has the right to be evaluated for Medicaid for the three months before the month of his or her application.

Medicaid coverage can be made effective retroactively for up to three months prior to an individual's initial application if the individual received medical services that would have been covered under Medicaid and if they would have been eligible for Medicaid in those three months had they applied.

During the hearing, you clarified that you are only seeking a redetermination of your child's eligibility for Medicaid for the month of November 2017 through this appeal. Your child was found eligible for Medicaid for the month of December 2017 after you filed your original appeal and you were no longer seeking a redetermination of your child's eligibility for Child Health Plus.

Financial eligibility for Medicaid for applicants who are not currently receiving Medicaid benefits is based on current monthly household income and family size. In November 2017, your child was [REDACTED]. To be eligible for Medicaid in November 2017, your child would have needed to meet the non-financial criteria and have an income no greater than 223% of the FPL, which is $3,795.00 per month. There is no indication in the record that your child would have been ineligible for Medicaid based on non-financial criteria during November.

Your application submitted on January 26, 2018, states that for the month of November 2017 your total household income was $5,050.14. You testified that amount was incorrect.

You testified that you are paid on a per diem basis at $21.33 per hour. You uploaded a paystub dated November 9, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $1706.55 and a paystub dated November 22, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $692.22. You also uploaded income documentation for your spouse which included a paystub dated November 16, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $736.40, a paystub dated November 30, 2017 for a gross pay amount of $322.14, and an unemployment benefit statement showing that he received $344.00 on November 19, 2017. You testified that the income described above represents your total household income for the month of November 2017. Therefore, the record indicates that in the month of November, you had a monthly household income of $3,801.31.

Since your income of $3,801.31 was more than the $3,795.00 monthly Medicaid limit for November 2017, NYSOH properly determined that your child was not eligible for Medicaid coverage during that month. Therefore, the January 27, 2018 eligibility determination stating that your child was not eligible for Medicaid in the month of November 2017, is correct and is AFFIRMED.
